Description: Law and Neuroscience, along with related fields like Law and Biology and Law and Artificial Intelligence, are becoming increasingly of interest to high school, undergraduate, and graduate students. Yet because these interdisciplinary endeavors are so new, there is a significant lack of available guidance on how best to pursue studies and careers. This online webinar is being provided to help fill that gap, and address students' most common questions about how to pursue studies and careers at the intersection of law, neuroscience, AI and related fields. This webinar is free, but you must be registered!

Date: Tonight, August 8, 2019

Time: 7:00-8:00 pm Eastern Time

Presenter: CLBB Executive Director, Dr. Francis X. Shen, JD, PhD will present this webinar. Dr. Shen directs the Shen Neurolaw Lab at the University of Minnesota, where he is an Associate Professor of Law, McKnight Presidential Fellow, and member of the faculty in the Graduate Program on Neuroscience. He is also the Exec. Dir. of Education and Outreach for the MacArthur Foundation Research Network on Law and Neuroscience, and a co-author on the first Law and Neuroscience casebook. Dr. Shen has published widely on a variety of law and neuroscience topics including memory and lie detection, cognitive enhancement, criminal justice, brain injury, evidentiary admissibility, sports concussion, juror decision-making, criminal mental states, dementia, and mental health. He also teaches and writes on artificial intelligence and the law. Dr. Shen teaches Criminal Law, Evidence, Law and Neuroscience, Law and Artificial Intelligence, and Introduction to American Law.
